SHIPMATE

Shipmate is an honorable word that is earned, not give. Being called shipmate is the highest compliment one can earn in his/her life.

Shipmate is a word equal to none in the English language. It is filled with courage, love, hate, duty, honor and country. It is a bond forged in storms, adversity and victory.

Shipmates are formed at sea, on a ship, with a Captain of character who causes a can-do spirit to pass down the line; Captain to Executive Officer, to Division Officers, to Chiefs, to Petty Officers, to Crew. No matter what year you were on PROVIDENCE, we are shipmates forever.

SOME SAILOR THOUGHTS: You can spend two years on PROVIDENCE and never visit every nook and cranny, or even every major space aboard. Yet, you know your shipmates.

When the need arises, the nearest head is always the one which is secured for a field day.

Never walk between the projector and the movie screen after the flick has started on the mess decks.

A guy who doesn't share a care package from home is not a good shipmate.

When transiting at sea, the ship's chronometer is advanced at 0200, which makes for a shorter night. When going in the opposite direction the chronometer is retarded at 1400, which extends the work day. Not sure about that one!?
